

Recognised as a class act

MOST schools would award certificates, but the Mehli Mehta Music Foundation (MMMMF) received a certificate of its own when it became the first music school in India to be designated as a Steinway Select School.

The award recognises the institution's high standards, performances, and contribution to music education. During the presentation, Anthony Gomes of Furtados, the key distributor of Steinway pianos to MMMF shared, "We are witness to these high standards that all of us, parents, grandparents, friends, and well-wishers are proud to be associated with."

Founder-trustee Mehroo Jeejeebhoy shared, "We are very proud to have this honour of being the first Steinway Select school in India. We always aim to give our children the best facilities, be it a good instrument or a nice environment to take lessons in." With barely any time to savour the honour, Jeejeebhoy is already preparing for the upcoming concert by Russian pianist Andreï Korobeinikov on September 27.
